Investment Risks and Performance Information

Private alternative investments are illiquid, subject to a substantial risk of loss and are not suitable for many investors. An investment in a Columbia Pacific fund is subject to a variety of risks, certain of which are disclosed in a fund’s private offering memorandum.

Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future results and is no guarantee of future returns. Return objectives are only targets and may not be achieved. Performance figures are unaudited estimates and are based on information from third-party sources that may be inaccurate or incomplete. Any comparison to an index is for illustrative purposes only. The investment strategies and risk characteristics of Columbia Pacific’s funds are typically different from those of an index. Individual returns may vary due to the timing of capital contributions and withdrawals, side pocket investments, tax withholding, special allocations of new issues and/or different fee arrangements. Investors in an offshore feeder fund may experience different and possibly lower performance due to higher operating expenses, withholding taxes and the calculation of fees on a different basis.
